

'Economic & Political' Weekly

Vol. 53, Issue No. 15, 14 Apr, 2018

The Economic & Political Weekly is a leading journal of economic and political thought in India. It is published weekly, except during the summer months when it is published bi-weekly. The journal covers a wide range of topics, including economic theory, development economics, political economy, and social justice.

The journal is edited by a team of leading scholars in the field. The current editor is Prof. Anand Kulkarni, who has been with the journal since its inception in 1952. The journal has a long and distinguished history, and has played a central role in the development of Indian economic and political thought. It is a must-read for anyone interested in the current affairs of India and the world.

The journal is published by the Economic & Political Weekly Society, which was founded in 1952. The society is a non-profit organization, and its primary objective is to promote the publication and distribution of the journal. The journal is available in both print and online formats. The online version is available at www.epw.in.

The journal is a member of the International Association of Agricultural Economists (IAAE), the International Association of Economic Journalists (IAEJ), and the International Association of Political Economists (IAPE). The journal is also a member of the Indian Council of Economic Research (ICER).

The journal is a leading journal of economic and political thought in India. It is published weekly, except during the summer months when it is published bi-weekly. The journal covers a wide range of topics, including economic theory, development economics, political economy, and social justice.

Is 'Economic & Political' Weekly still relevant? The journal has a long and distinguished history, and has played a central role in the development of Indian economic and political thought. It is a must-read for anyone interested in the current affairs of India and the world.

